Women walk in sarees

Over 300 ladies walk, laugh, dance, socialise for cancer awareness; donate hair for wigs

Mysuru, Oct. 30 (MTY&BCT)- It was a women's day out as over 300 of them walked, laughed, danced and socialised from the Kote Anjaneyaswamy Temple premises in city this morning as part of the 'Saree Walkathon', braving the morning chill.

The walkathon was organised by V Sakhi, Rotary Mysore East, Shakthi and Narayana Hrudayalaya to create awareness about breast cancer. Women gathered at the Palace North Gate venue as early as 6 am and the walkathon was flagged off at around 7.30 am by member of erstwhile royal family Pramoda Devi Wadiyar.

Clad in colourful sarees, women walked around the Mysore Palace, covering a distance of about 3.5 kilometres. They performed Zumba dances at a couple of places and attracted onlookers.

The walkathon covered K.R. Circle, Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) Office, CADA Office, Varaha Gate and Jayamarthanda Gate of the Palace, Jayachamaraja Wadiyar Circle (Hardinge Circle) and back to Kote Anjaneyaswamy Temple.

Leopard remains elusive; two cages placed

KRS North Gate closed for tourists

Business of many small-time vendors affected

Srirangapatna, Oct. 30 (Vinay Karekura & BCT)- The Forest Department has placed two cages with baits at the Krishna Raja Sagar (KRS) Dam premises, one at the North Gate and another at the South Gate to trap the elusive leopard that is on the prowl.

While the Dam and the famed Brindavan Gardens remained out of bounds for tourists yesterday following the sighting of the feline at 6 pm on Friday, the South Gate Garden side was opened this morning while the North Gate remained closed.

Due to repeated closure of Brindavan Gardens following leopard scare, many small-time vendors selling eatables, snacks, fruits and toys have suffered losses. Hundreds of tourists visit the Dam and Gardens every day and the number doubles during weekend.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

When there are thoughts, it is distraction: when there are no thoughts, it is meditation, said Ramana Maharshi. There is no doubt that there are some people in the world who are spiritually inclined but they too have only a nodding acquaintance with the soul and with the Supreme.

It is possible only through the practice of meditation which enables an aspirant to have realisation of the self and a vivid and refreshing experience of the Supreme Almighty. Dedicating a few minutes daily to meditation is a meaningful expression of caring for yourself that can help you move through the mire of feeling unworthy.

Meditation enables a person to discover or re-discover the self and to have a channel for heart-to-heart communication with Almighty. It enables a person to penetrate deeply and progressively into deeper levels of the mind and peep into the hidden world of reality. It involves the turning of one's mind and the flow of his/ her love in the direction of the Almighty, giving him/her the hot-line, to communicate with HIM.

Thus, it is a technique of self-exploration, leading to the experience of heightened and expanded awareness, reaching God and bringing HIM into the focus of the soul's awareness.

In a word, the principal object of Meditation is to bring the self in conscious touch with the Almighty, thus making it increasingly aware of its divine origin, divine destiny and divine and peaceful real nature. This practice of awareness of Supreme opens greater orbits of being. One not only gets firsthand vision and experience of the ultimate truth and the reality behind all realities but also one feels that one is not merely the creature but also creator of his environment.

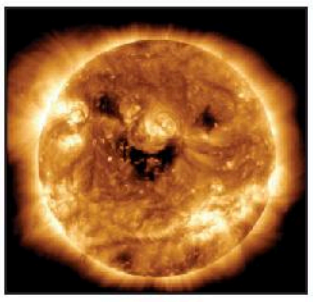
World's largest jack-o'-lantern!

Minnesota: A Minnesota gardener's 2,560 pound pumpkin, the largest in US history, is being carved into the world's largest jack-o'-lantern. The pumpkin, dubbed Maverick in honour of Tom Cruise's character from the Top Gun films, broke the US record for pumpkin size when it won the World Championship Pumpkin Weigh-Off in Half Moon Bay, Calif., earlier this month.

Travis Gienger, the man who grew the massive pumpkin, brought Maverick back to his home in Anoka, and the gargantuan gourd is being carved Friday in an attempt to break the Guinness World Record for largest jack-o'-lantern. The pumpkin is being carved into the image of an eagle at Anoka City Hall. The event is organised by Anoka Halloween, an organisation that bills the city as "Halloween Capital of the World."

Smiling sunshine!



US: NASA has shared an image of the sun "smiling", after one of their satellites captured patterns on its surface appearing to show a happy face. The US space agency posted the images on social media, writing: "NASA's Solar Dynamics Observatory caught the sun 'smiling.' Seen in ultraviolet light, these dark patches on the Sun are known as coronal holes and are regions where fast solar wind gushes out into space."

People were quick to make comparisons with a variety of characters and objects, including the Teletubbies baby, the Ghostbusters Stay Puff marshmallow man, a biscuit, a lion and a pumpkin. One person wrote on Twitter: "If Teletubbies chose a realistic sun, this would be it". While another said: "Seems like all those young kids drawing a smiley sun in pre-school were onto something..." NASA's Solar Dynamics Observatory was set up in 2010 to investigate how solar activity is created and how it drives space weather.

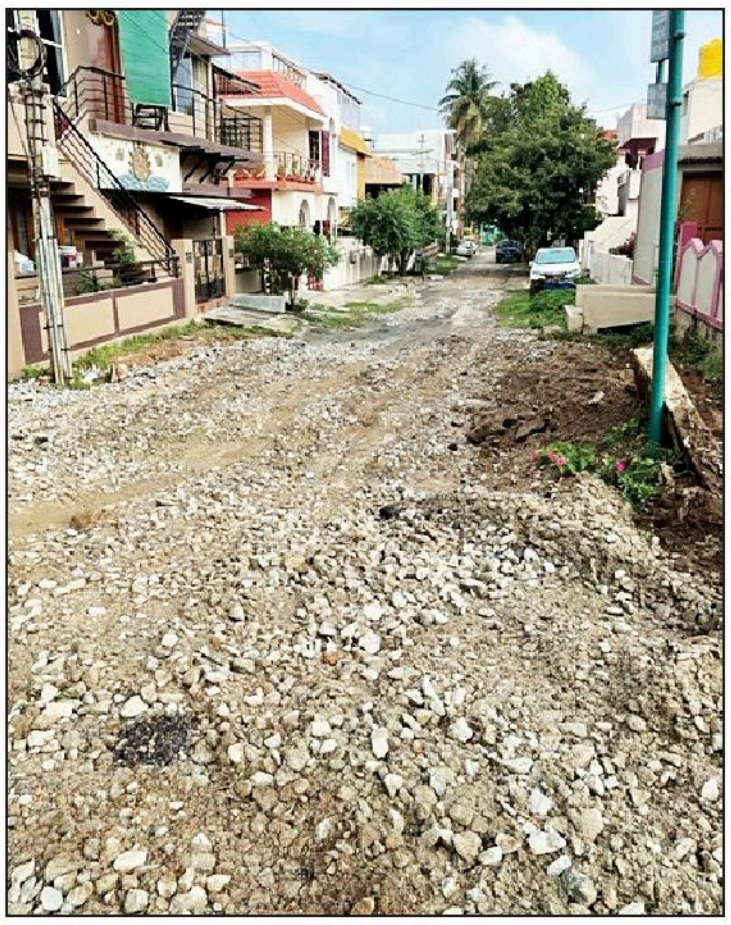
Quixotic public works by MCC



Sir,

The 8th Cross, Vinaya Marga, Siddartha Layout, has three segments. One segment between Neethi Marga and San Marga, the other between San Marga and Vinaya Marga and the third between Vinaya Marga and Moksha Marga behind Jain Temple. The first two segments concretised are taken care of well by MCC.

Unfortunately, the third stretch behind Jain Temple, which is just 250 metres, is neglected. This stretch acts as a funnel for the entire stretch of Vinaya Marga paving the way for storm water to gush and helps the entire Vinaya Marga in both ends from water stagnation.

During rains the segment will convert itself into a small stream and during heavy rains it will look like a tributary of Cauvery River.

It was 25 years ago that tar was laid and subsequent digging up jobs in the segment by various public works were simply covered with the same earth and not once the road was asphalted. A year ago new sewage pipe was laid by digging and again no proper road was laid.

The segment is now a kacha road with lots of potholes. Added to that, the beginning of this stretch behind Jain Temple is scattered with rubbles meant for laying road. A large tree that fell six months ago damaging the properties of a few houses is left with its huge roots so far not removed by MCC.

There are many roads sparingly used by public but MCC takes care of them by laying tar often. But MCC's neglect of roads with large inhabitants like the stretch behind Jain Temple seems like Quixotic way of managing public roads.

Now that the Vinaya Marga near Jain Temple is undergoing major repair works including concretising, I request MCC to concretise this 250 metres segment also considering the huge storm water load this small stretch bears to help the entire Vinaya Marga and provide a long-lasting solution.

New General Hospital at Hunsur to start functioning by end of year

Hunsur, Oct. 30- Minister for Health and Medical Education Dr. K. Sudhakar said that the new General Hospital being constructed at Hunsur will be thrown open for public service by the end of this year.

Speaking to presspersons after inspecting the Hospital construction works here on Friday, Dr. Sudhakar said that the 135 bed Hospital is coming up at a cost of Rs. 32 crore. Pointing out that the Hospital was initially planned in 2018 for 100 bed capacity with an estimated cost of Rs. 25 crore, he said that the delay in the works was due to the increased capacity, change of location of the Hospital and lack of funds.

Now, after he visited the site and reviewed the progress of construction, Dr. Sudhakar said that the additional cost of Rs. 7 crore would soon be released. Noting that once the new Hospital is opened for service, the old Hospital would function as a 30 bed women and children Hospital.

Health Minister Dr. K. Sudhakar, along with MP Pratap Simha, MLA H.P. Manjunath and others, inspecting the construction works of the new General Hospital at Hunsur on Friday.

'Educate children about subjects which are outside text books'

Mysuru, Oct. 30 (GA&TRR)- District Institute of Education and Training (DIET) senior lecturer N. Jayanthi has said that our adherence to religious and pious practices were still preventing from providing sex education to children. "We need to educate children about subjects that are outside their text books," she opined.

She was speaking at an interaction programme on 'Ittichina Dinagalalli Hechuttiruva Atyachara Prakaranagalu,' organised jointly by the District Kannada Sahitya Parishat and Sri Basaveshwara Samskrutika Pratishtana, at Kannada Sahitya Bhavan in Vijayanagar here on Friday.

"The recent rape and murder incident of a school girl at Malavalli in Mandya District is an indication of the perverted nature of human mind which is a matter of grave concern for all of us. In all rape cases, we tend to view the victim as guilty and discuss the issue from that angle. Instead, we should all give our moral support to the rape victim," she added.

"We should stop discussing whether male is superior or female is superior. Sending a message that being human is more important is the need of the hour. We need to teach children about good and bad touch at Primary School level and educate them about the changes they go through during their adolescence. We are feeling shy of teaching these issues in schools and are only teaching students that are in the text books," Jayanthi said.

District Institute of Education and Training (DIET) senior lecturer N. Jayanthi inaugurating the interaction programme at Kannada Sahitya Bhavan in city recently as others look on.

Observing that in most of the rape cases the accused is rich and the victim is poor, Jayanthi felt that it is the failure of the parents to take proper care of their children which is the main reason for sexual abuse and suggested that victims should be provided medical counselling. "Country's judiciary, legislature and social system should ensure that the guilty in rape offence should be given severe punishment. The entire society should be awaken and the education system should be strengthened in this regard," she concluded.

Sharana Sahitya thinker H.C. Shivabuddhi, who too spoke on the occasion, said that children follow the path of their parents and advised parents to practice good culture. "Of late, films are influencing children. Rape cases are less in a few countries because there is stringent punishment for the accused. Even in our country also, POCSO Act has exposed the sinister activities of many who are in political, spiritual and educational sectors. But they should be given more punishment through the judiciary," he opined.

Mysuru District Government Employees Association Senior Vice-President Malangi Suresh, Advocate M. Poornima, Farmers Association President Kanenoor Jagadish, Sri Basaveshwara Samskrutika Pratishtana President Basava Rajendra Swamiji and others were present on the occasion.

Union Territory, autonomous status for Kodagu

CNC to hold protest in New Delhi on Nov. 1

Madikeri, Oct.30 (PS&DM)- Seeking fulfilment of its demands which chiefly included declaration of Kodagu as a Union Territory or formation of the Second States Reorganisation Commission for restoring Coorg State as a Part-C State of India, which existed from 1950 to 1956, the Codava National Council (CNC) will stage a protest at Jantar Mantar in New Delhi on Nov. 1.

As a prelude to this, a delegation led by CNC President N.U. Nachappa staged a demonstration in front of the Deputy Commissioner's office in Madikeri yesterday and submitted a memorandum containing their charter of demands.

Later speaking to press persons, Nachappa said that before 1956, Coorg was an administratively separate Coorg State, at which point it was merged into an enlarged Mysore State. He noted that Coorg State was a part C-State of India which existed from 1950 to 1956. But when the Constitution came into force on Jan. 26, 1950, Coorg Province became Coorg State, which was abolished on Nov.1, 1956 as per the States Reorganisation Act, 1956 and its territory was merged with Mysore State, which was later renamed as Karnataka in 1973, he pointed out.

Maintaining that Independent India's first Home Minister Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, while addressing a Parliament session had said that Coorg was the only 'Rama Rajya' of the country, Nachappa contended that the period between 1952 and 1956 was the 'golden era' for Coorg, as the State had charted the path of progress. But the Coorg State was merged with the then Mysore State which dashed all hopes of Kodavas for continuance of separate administration, he said.

Now, in order to restore the past glory of Kodagu, the CNC has been demanding formation of a second States Reorganisation Commission as Kodagu needed full autonomy for making it free of land mafias. He urged the Government to immediately declare Kodagu as a Union Territory, for which the CNC has been demanding in a peaceful manner.

Nachappa also demanded that Kodavas should be granted ethno linguistic tribal minority nationality status under Articles 340 and 342 of the Constitution, inclusion of 'Kodava Thakk' in the 8th Schedule of the Constitution and Constitutional guarantee for holding firearms (due to martial traditions similar to Sikhs and Nagas) without hindrance for ever, as the Kodavas worship weapons (guns and swords) as part of their tradition.

Jelly stone heap posing danger at Azeez Sait Nagar

Mysuru, Oct. 30 (RK&SSM)- Jelly stone heap dumped near the transformer from the past fifteen days for road asphalting works at Azeez Sait Nagar is posing danger to the residents of the area.

The jelly stone heap dumped under a transformer near Shaalu Bakery in Azeez Sait Nagar of Ward No. 34 is causing inconvenience to school children who usually take this route daily. There are chances of students climbing the jelly stone heap which may result in them coming in contact with the transformer and get electrocuted. There are chances of jelly stones getting scattered on the road which may also pose danger to motorists.

The road asphalting works has come to a standstill even though the jelly stones was dumped about 15 days ago.

Even though several officials and elected representatives commute on the same road every day, they are least bothered about the complaints by the residents about the danger. Besides, the negligence of the contractors, who have left the works incomplete is also a reason for this situation.

However, this is not the first time these types of inconveniences have happened in the area. Complaints regarding stinking garbage, bad roads, overflowing manhole etc., can be heard from the residents of the locality. The residents have urged the authorities concerned to complete the works at the earliest.

TRAVELOGUE

Turkey: The land of history, culture and architecture

By Sujata Rajpal

When husband suggested Turkey as the destination for our family vacation, my first reaction was 'is it safe to visit Turkey?' Interestingly, to whosoever I spoke about our holiday, their first response was the same as mine. Now, after twelve-day vacation in Turkey, I can confidently say that Turkey is as safe as any other 'safe' country. Turkey is a country that straddles two continents. Istanbul, Turkey's largest city with a population of 15 million, lies partly in Europe and partly in Asia. European part of Istanbul is separated from Asian part by the Bosphorus River, a 31-km waterway which connects Black Sea with the sea of Marmara and forms a natural boundary between the two continents.

Islam is the largest religion in Turkey. I was expecting to find myself amongst Hijab and Burqa-wearing women, so I had carried a scarf to avoid being the odd one out on a foreign land, but in my entire trip, I spotted only a handful of elderly women in Hijab in a country whose 98% population is Muslim. Hijab and burqas are banned in public places in Turkey. The women in Turkey wear western clothes like in other western countries. Turkey is a secular nation. Polygamy was abolished and officially criminalised with the adoption of the Turkish Civil Code in 1926. Education up to secondary level is free and compulsory.

Istanbul: One can't have enough

Oman airways arrived at Istanbul Airport at 7 pm local time. One hour ride in the luxury van organised by our hotel, quick check-in and we were ready to explore Turkey. There are hotels to suit all budgets, but post COVID the tariffs have gone up exponentially. We were advised to stay on the European side of Istanbul as most of the tourist attractions are on this part of the city. Our hotel was on the bank of Bosphorus River and bang opposite the tram station.

Istanbul has so much to offer that one needs at least a week to see everything at leisure. Istanbul tourist pass purchased online in advance provided access to about forty tourist attractions in the city. The following morning after a breakfast, we set out for Galata Tower. The medieval stone tower which extends 63 metres into the sky was used as a watch tower in olden times. Overlooking the Bosphorus River, it provides a 360-degree panoramic view of Istanbul. One can clearly see the European and Asia sides merging.

An hour later, we were walking towards Topkapi Palace Museum. This magnificent Palace was the primary residence of the Ottoman Sultans for nearly 400 years. Turkey's culture has a diverse set of oriental and European elements and is influenced by Greeks, Arabs, Persians, Armenians, Georgians, and Kurds. The Palace has a unique collection of weapons of the Ottoman Army, beautiful fabrics, jewels and art.

A quick lunch and we were in the queue to enter Hagia Sophia mosque, the most visited monument in Turkey. In mosques, women are expected to cover their head and wear decent clothes. So carry a scarf if you are going to a mosque but if you forget to carry one, just like in Gurdwaras in India, the scarves are kept for use outside the mosques. Hagia Sophia was first a cathedral of Constantinople and later an imperial mosque of the Ottoman empire; here 1,500 years of Christian and Islamic history can be seen side-by-side. In July 2020, it was reclassified as a mosque and open for prayers. Istanbul has 4,000 mosques and the tourists, including non-Muslims, are allowed in all the mosques. We took the tram back to our hotel and got ready for Bosphorus dinner cruise which too came complementary with Istanbul tourist pass.

Hagia Sophia in Istanbul.

Because the first day was hectic, we decided to make Day 2 more relaxed. The first stop was Basilica Cistern. After an hour and a half in Basilica, we walked to the Blue Mosque cruising through the crowds following the red flag of our guide.

Dolmabahce Palace was a thirty minute walk from the Blue Mosque, we decided to take the tram and tagged along with our guide who was too eager to belt out information about Turkey. She said she had to study for four years to become a certified guide. The grand Dolmabahçe Palace was the last and most expensive residence of the Sultans of the Ottoman Empire. Set along the beautiful waters of the Bosphorus, it has 285 rooms, 44 halls, 68 toilets and six hammams (Turkish baths). There were many exotic furnishings, artworks and other priceless treasures on display. When we visit any palace, comparisons with our own Mysore Palace are obvious. Not trying to be biased but the magnificence and beauty of Mysore Palace surpasses the grandeur of all the palaces I have seen around the world.

Driving on Turkey roads is a breeze

Travelling is not difficult in Turkey as there is air connectivity, excellent roads and good public transport. In Turkey, hire only metered taxi, else there are chances that you would be fleeced. Taking a taxi was cheap even as per Indian standards.

Cappadocia

Istanbul to Cappadocia was an eight-hour drive with two stops. Air connectivity too is available. Cappadocia is known for its enchanting cave dwellings. Across the region, there were rock faces where communities lived in these caves right up until 1952.

In the part of the city where we stayed, there were only cave hotels. It is believed that many years ago due to volcanic explosions, eruptions scattered everywhere and with time it hardened due to oxidation and turned into cave like structures. Not just the cave hotels, the entire area has rustic surroundings which complement the caves. If Cappadocia is in your itinerary then you must stay in these cave hotels. It is also said that in the dim past of early centuries, barbarians used to come and ransack the villages. Hence, people lived underground.

We woke up the next morning and rushed to the roof top to see the sky speckled with colourful balloons flying above the roofs. It was a sight to behold. Cappadocia is known for hot air balloon rides. We didn't take the ride in Cappadocia; instead we had decided to take one in Pamukalle, our next stop as it was cheaper there. Just like cave hotels, hot air balloon ride too is a must in Turkey.

We were in Cappadocia for only one day but the ideal would be two days. There were various options. On popular recommendation, we opted for Green tour. Our guide was a young Turkish girl named Elf (her short name for easy pronunciation) who was extremely enthusiastic about telling us about her country.

We were picked up from our hotel and taken to the Underground city which is a UNESCO site and a must see. The underground city was expanded and deepened in the Eastern Roman (Byzantine) era, when it was used for protection from Muslim Arab raids during the four centuries of Arab–Byzantine wars (780-1180).

The unforgettable hot-air balloon ride

We were all excited as we had seen the balloons in Cappadocia. The experience exceeded our expectations. Balloon rides start a little before the sunrise. The process of inflating the balloon, turning over the wicker basket for the passengers to get in, the rise of the balloon in the sky was as exciting as the ride itself. Each balloon carries 14 people in addition to the pilot. There were about 20 balloons in the field ready to take off. It was still dark and the air was nippy. If I could capture one moment in my heart from the entire trip, it was this moment. We got into the balloon and it rose over the city, above the pomegranate orchids, sugarcane and pumpkin fields.

Cats in Turkey: Cats abound the streets of Turkey. They are everywhere — on the streets, inside the lobby of hotels, restaurants, stores, sitting by your table in a restaurant, they sneak in and roam around. People feed them and pet them.

ABOUT THE PLAY

'The Day the Crayons Quit' is about how all the crayons in the box are protesting about something or the other. They all have a genuine problem and have had enough. So they decide to quit.

Using parts of the book, the team has used a bunch of visual elements to bring alive the problems of the crayons on stage, be it creating fire engines, waterfalls, seas, skies, Santa's sleigh or a fashion show.

This play is 45 minutes of high energy and immersive engagement with kids as it transports them into the world of the crayons.

Popular songs have been modified to communicate what's happening on stage and to get tiny tots to sing along with the performing team. The final song encapsulates what the takeaway from the play really is — "To try new things every day."

Tickets are priced at Rs. 350 and is available on BookMyShow. For details, contact Mob: 98451-16915.

KRS North Gate closed

"Last week too the leopard was sighted on a Saturday and this time it came on a Friday. Due to the repeated closure of the Dam, we are facing losses as tourists are scared to come here," said a vendor.

The leopard was spotted in the Horticulture Department farm near the Northern Gardens close to the musical fountains at 6 pm on Friday. Again, it was sighted at 10 pm on the same day as it came face-to-face with the Forest Department staff who were combing the area late into the night. The North Gate of the gardens attracts more tourists due to the musical fountains where the sound-and-light-shows are held. The South Gate area has a few fountains and tourists come here to see the lighting and also the Cauvery statue. While the North Gate comes under the administration of Pandavapura Forest Division, the Southern area comes under Srirangapatna Division.

Last night too, the Forest staff conducted a combing operation but could not find the elusive cat. However, the Cauvery Neeravari Nigama Limited (CNNL) authorities decided to open the Southern Gate today while keeping the North Gate out of bounds for visitors.

This move has been criticised as the CNNL is endangering the lives of tourists and is safeguarding its revenue interest. "The distance between the North Gate and the South Gate is not much and a leopard can easily cover the distance in 10 minutes. Can the CNNL guarantee that the leopard will not come to the Southern Gardens? Before opening the Brindavan Gardens to the tourists, the CNNL must ensure that the area is safe. But the officers have relegated tourist safety into the background and are focussed only on entry ticket collection," said a tourist.

Meanwhile, CNNL Assistant Executive Engineer Farooq Ahmed Abu said that there was confusion as to whether it was the same leopard that visited the KRS last week or was it a new one. "While there are no CCTV visuals of the leopard that came last week, Friday's CCTV visuals indicate that the leopard was a sub-adult," he said.

Lab equipment, furniture of Maharani's Science College moved

Mysuru, Oct. 30 (MTY&DM)- Days after the roof of the Chemistry Laboratory in the over century-old Maharani's Science College on JLB Road came crashing on the morning of Oct. 21, the shifting of furniture, materials, articles and equipment in a total of 20 classrooms and laboratories in the building began this morning.

Today, the furniture and other articles of the roof collapsed classrooms in the building were shifted to the new building that is adjacent to the collapsed one, under the supervision of College Principal D. Ravi.

From tomorrow, the lab equipment and other paraphernalia in all laboratories that functioned from the old collapsed portion of the building, will be shifted to the new building, with all safety and precautionary measures in place.

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, College Principal D. Ravi said that the relocation process of a total of 20 classrooms and laboratories has commenced today with the shifting of furniture and other articles in classrooms to the new building.

Pointing out that an experienced agency has been engaged for shifting, he said that the shifting will be completed as soon as possible so as to ensure that there is no disruption in academics for students.

WORD OF THE DAY

Cloying

Pronunciation: KLOY-ing.
Meaning: Excessively sweet or sentimental."
Origin: Cloying comes from the verb cloy, which had among its earliest uses the meaning (to quote the Oxford English Dictionary) "to render [a gun] useless by driving a spike or plug into the touch-hole." This ultra-specific sense of clogging and stuffing arose alongside both broader and figurative ones, including "to fill or choke up," and cloy has since come to mean "to supply or indulge to excess." Accordingly, cloying implies a nauseating amount of something that might be pleasing in smaller doses, especially both literal and metaphorical sweetness.
Example: "The series is also a showcase for the affect that [comedian Sam] Richardson has become known for, an extra-beatific quality that verges on pathological but is never pathetic or cloying, even when the goofiness runs sweet." —Lauren Michel Jackson

THE ODD WORD

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Call a spade a spade

Meaning: To call a spade a spade is to speak plainly - to describe something as it really is.
Origin: It might be thought that this derives from the derogatory use of the slang term 'spade', meaning Negro, an American term originating in the 20th century. That view of it as derogatory might also be thought to be supported by this piece from John Trapp's Mellificium theologicum, or the marrow of many good authors, 1647: "Gods people shall not spare to call a spade a spade, a niggard a niggard."
Trapp's use of 'niggard' is difficult to interpret. The word had several meanings in the 17th century. It could be used to mean 'miser', which is the more common usage today, or as a general term of abuse — 'lout', 'barbarian' etc. The word was also used as the name of firebricks in grates. The co-incidence in form and pronunciation of 'niggard' and 'n*gger' causes some confusion. Although the two words probably derived independently, they doubtless affected each other's development of meaning over time. Whatever Trapp's intention was, we can be confident that he didn't mean 'n*gger' or 'negro'. An earlier expression of the notion, albeit in different form to that which we now use, comes from Nicolas Udall's Apophthegmes of Erasmus - translated in 1542: "Philippus aunswered, that the Macedonians wer feloes of no fyne witte in their termes but altogether grosse, clubbyshe, and rusticall, as they whiche had not the witte to calle a spade by any other name then a spade."
